The film is based on the 2005 novel of the same name by comedian Danny Wallace, who also makes his appearance in cameo. Production of the film began in Los Angeles in October 2007. It was released on December 19, 2008 in the United States and December 26, 2008 in the United Kingdom. The film received mixed reviews from critics, but it was a box office hit, earning $223 million worldwide Trama Carl, a bank loan agent, retired after his divorce from Stephanie. She has an increasingly negative view of her life and usually ignores her friends Peter and Rooney. On the advice of an old colleague, Nick, Carl attends a motivational seminar that encourages people to take the opportunity to say "Yes!" At the seminar, Carl meets Terrence, the inspirational guru, who snatches a promise to answer "Yes!" to every opportunity that presents itself. Later, Carl accepts the request of a homeless man and finds himself without gas and battery on his cell phone at Elysian Park. Disillusioned, he makes many excursions to find a gas station where he meets Allison, an unorthodox young woman. She gives him a ride to her car with her scooter and kisses him before leaving. After this positive experience, Carl is more optimistic in saying himself, However, he refuses oral sex with his elderly neighbor Tillie, and then falls down the stairs and is almost attacked by a dog. Seeing the repercussions of saying no, he goes back to Tillie and to her surprise enjoys the moment. Carl starts taking every opportunity he gets. She renews her friendships with Peter and Rooney; builds a bond with her nerd boss, Norman; helps Peter's girlfriend, Lucy, with her wedding party; attends Korean language classes; and much more. He earns a company promotion at work and, taking advantage of his guitar lessons, plays Third Eye Blind's "Jumper" to convince a man not to commit suicide. Accepting a band flyer outside a bar, he sees a band called munchausen for proxy; The main singer is Allison. is fascinated by its eccentricity; She is fascinated by her spontaneity and the two begin to bow. Carl and Allison meet at the airport for a spontaneous weekend excursion. having decided to take the first plane out of town, regardless of its destination, end up in Lincoln, in Nebraska, where they bind more. Allison confesses her love for Carl and asks him to transfer her with her and agrees hesitantly. during check-in for return flight, Carl and Allison are held by the FBI agents who profiled it as a terrorist potential because he took flight lessons, studied Korean, approved a loan for a fertilizer company, met Iranian air tickets and purchased at the last minute. Pietro, his lawyer, travels to Nebraska to explain the strange habits, lessons and Carl decisions. While discovering the motivational alliance of Carl, Allison begins to doubt that her commitment to her was ever sincere. decide that he can no longer trust him, Allison leaves Carl and refuses to return his calls. Carl's life makes a breakthrough for the worst and almost forgot the shower of Lucy. manages to arrange a big surprise shower, put his friend normally with Soo-Mi, a Korean girl and Rooney with Tillie. after the party, Carl receives a call in tears from Stephanie, whose new boyfriend is ocited on her. When Carl goes to Stephanie's apartment to comfort her, he kisses him and asks him to spend the night with her. after Carl says in fact no, his fortune takes a turn of the worst and decides to end his commitment to the alliance. Carl goes to the congress center and hides in the backsee of the convertible of the thorning so that he can be beg to be released from the alliance. Carl emerges as the Terrence pushes away, and an incoming vehicle collides with the Terrence, resulting in an increase of the two in a hospital. after Carl regains consciousness, the earthly says to Carl that the alliance was not real, but it was only a starting point to open the mind of Carl to other possibilities, not permanently remove its ability to say no if it needed. released from this thought, Carl finds Allison teaching a sports photography lesson and admits that he is not yet ready to move with her; but he sincerely loves him, and reconcile with a kiss like Allison students take photos. cast Jim Carrey as Carl Zooey Deschanel as Allison Bradley Cooper as Pietro, the best friend of Carl John Michael Higgins as Nick Rhys Darby as Norman, Carl's boss Danny Masterson as Rooney, the other best friend fionnula Flanagan as Tillie, the neighbor of the nearby trans of torgen trances SashaLee Sean O'Bryan as Ted Spencer Garrett as Mulate Rocky Carroll as Wes Vivian Bang as Soo-Mi Jarrad Paul as Reggie Luis Guzmán Jumper Brent Briscoe as a homeless boy Mail Flanagan as Janet Danny Wallace as congress congresses Production yes man is based on a memoir with the same name with the Humorist Danny Wallace. The book tells of the 6-month period in which he is committed to saying "Yes" to all based on a short conversation with a stranger who met on the bus. Wallace also has a cameo in the film, in the final scene of the film bar, in which he is talking to someone behind Danny Masterson. [2] Jim Carrey refused an early salary for the role of him in the film. Instead, it was paid 36.2% of the gross of the film after its production and marketing costs have been recovered. [3] When shooting a scene where Carrey's character bungee jumps from a bridge, Carrey interrupted and asked to do the stunt himself. [4] Carrey declared the stunt double that he intended to do it in a grip. When he jumps out, he is seen that he pulls out a cell phone for the scene. During the scene of the scene in the bar where the character of Carrey turns into a waitress and falls his back on his back, Carrey performed the stunt incorrectly and fell on the floor stronger than he expected, breaking three ribs in the process. [5] Carrey learned the basic Korean for a scene. Language Coach John Song was hired to teach Carrey for ten weeks. [6] In the same way a wide training was needed for the scenes in which Carrey's character learns to play the guitar; Carrey tried to play during the years of his childhood, but "quit before learning an agreement". Carrey said in an interview with HBO: "Just learning the basic agreements was perhaps the most challenging part of any film I worked in my career. Peyton [Reed] even joked on the side of the guitar that is nicknamed, or simply Chopped completely. "Reed played the" jumper "song of the third blind eye, which had a high number of digital downloads after the theatrical release of the film. [Necessary quote] After the final date of shooting, Carrey "withdrawn" his fixed guitar and Deschanel held him. When asked about this, Carrey said: "You never need this, or any guitar ever more; the guitar is not for me! It has never been, it will never be!" [Necessary quote] [6] The soundtrack of the film has the original music of Munchausen from Proxy, an imaginary band that takes its name from the MÃ¼nchausen syndrome for proxy (a psychological disorder). In the film, the band consists of an actress Deschanel on the lead voices and the band of the whole female based on San Francisco von VAT, a trio of voice, keyboards and drums. Vat VAT members collaborated with Deschanel, a singer singer and half of the duo her and he, to write and recording the songs of the band for the film. [7] [8] VAT VAT obtained the part of the fictitious ensemble in the film after the film's musical supervisor, Jonathan Karp, saw the coverage of their CD in Ameeba a [9] For the DVD/Blu-ray release of the movie, Deschanel and Von IVA filmed a Spoof MTV Music Show-show Documentary about the band for which they filmed Video Music Mock for several of the songs; The home video version also includes full-length performances by the Group that were not included in the film. The soundtrack also presents Eels songs, including a new song titled "Man Up".[10] The introductory music at the beginning of the film from Carrey's ringtone comes from Journey's song "Separate Ways." It is also characterized when the character of Carrey leaves the hospital to take a jog at 6 a.m. Release Critical acclaim Yes Man has received mixed reviews. The Rotten Tomatoes review aggregator gave the film a 46% rating, based on 153 reviews, with an average rating of 5.3. The site's consensus reads: "Jim Carrey's comic convulsions are the only bright spots of this otherwise dim and predictable comedy". [11] On Metacritic, the film has a score of 46 out of 100, based on 30 critics, indicating "mixed or medium reviews".[12] The audience interviewed by CinemaScore had given the film an average rating of "A" on a scale from A+ to F.[13][14] Many critics thought the plot was too similar to Carrey's 1997 Liar Liar.[15] In her review for the Miami Herald, Rene Rodriguez wrote, "Yes Man is fine with Jim Carrey's comedy, but it's even better as a funny love story".[16] Kyle Smith of the New York Post wrote: "The first time I saw Yes Man, I thought the concept was getting a bit stale towards the end. Apparently, that was just the trailer".[17] Roger Ebert of the Chicago Sun Times gave the movie 2 out of 4, and compared it to Lie. He said: "Jim Carrey works on the premise for what it's worth, but it doesn't let him slip away and fly".[18] Tickets The movie opened its first weekend at the US box office with $18.3 million[19] and was the number one spot at the UK box office on the first weekend after its release.[20] To date, the film has grossed more than $220 million worldwide, surpassing Jim Carrey's previous comedy Fun with Dick and Jane, but falling short of his 2003 movie Bruce Onnighy.
