Click Here

In the video below, Keri from the Writing Center explains how to create an APA-style Reference entry for a website without an author listed. Organizational Author. (Date). Title of page. Container or Site Name (if different than the organizational author, if it's the same--skip info here!) URL National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Skin Diseases. (2019). Scoliosis in children and teens. National Institute of Health. 1 References National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Skin Diseases. (2019). Scoliosis in children and teens. National Institute of Health. (National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Skin Diseases, 2019) Page 2 Author Last Name, First Initial or Organizational Author. (Date). Title or description [Type of Media] Source. URL. Radiological Society of North America, Inc. (2025). Iodine contrast material has been injected into the shoulder joint - this is a shoulder arthrogram. [Radiograph]. Radiologyinfo.org. Example image source (final, as it would appear on a Reference page): 1 References Radiological Society of North America, Inc. (2025). Iodine contrast material has been injected into the shoulder joint - this is a shoulder arthrogram. [Radiograph]. Radiologyinfo.org. You will also need to cite this in the body of your paper. In-text use of images should be formatted as follows: Figure 1 Shoulder Arthrogram Note. From Iodine contrast material has been injected into the shoulder joint - this is a shoulder arthrogram. [Radiograph], by Radiological Society of North America, Inc., 2025, Radiologyinfo.org. (Example image source as it would appear in your paper: 1 Figure 1 Shoulder Arthrogram Note. From Iodine contrast material has been injected into the shoulder joint - this is a shoulder arthrogram. [Radiograph], by Radiological Society of North America, Inc., 2025, Radiologyinfo.org. (Home / Guides / Citation Guides / APA Format / How to cite in APA when there are no authors Share to Google Classroom Published October 28, 2020. Updated July 8, 2022. This article covers how to cite in APA Style (7th ed.) when there are no known authors for a reference or when the author is unknown or cannot be reasonably determined. Before treating a reference as though it has no author, consider whether a group or organization (such as a government agency, association, nonprofit organization, business, hospital, task force, or study group) could be the author by checking the cover or title page. Citing in-text when there are no authors APA 7th ed. uses the author-date citation system for citing references in-text. In parenthetical citations, this structure includes the author's last name and the publication year (with a comma separating them) in parentheses. In narrative citations, the author's last name is incorporated into the sentence. This formatting applies if your source has one author or if you are citing a source with multiple authors in APA format. Parenthetical citation for source with author: (Author Last Name, Year Published) (Cheung, 2013) Narrative citation for source with author: Author Last Name (Year Published) Cheung (2013) If a reference has an unknown author, the title of the work substitutes as the author name in the in-text citation. The title should have each significant word capitalized (basically sentence case). If the source is not italicized in the reference list entry, place the title in quotation marks (" ") in the in-text citation. If the source title is italicized in the reference list entry, italicize the title in the in-text citation (example: books when cited in APA). No author, source title italicized: (Source Title, year published) (Park Avenue Summer, 2019) No author, source title in quotes: ("22 New Apple Varieties," 1997) Author designated as "Anonymous" Only use the capitalized word "Anonymous" in place of the author's name when it's overtly designated, not as a general substitute for a reference with an unknown author. "Anonymous" as author name: (Anonymous, year published) (Anonymous, 2020) Citing in the reference list when there are no authors To add a reference with no author to the reference list, first move the title of the reference to the author position in your citation. For further information on creating reference list citations, see this guide on APA citations. Reference list examples: Park avenue summer. (2019). Penguin Random House. 22 new apple varieties. (1997). Food Magazine. Author designated as "Anonymous" If the reference is overtly signed "Anonymous," then you can add the entry to the reference list as if "Anonymous" were the author's last name. Anonymous. (2020). Navigating the high seas. Sea Life. Alphabetizing the reference list for sources with no known author Reference list entries without an author are alphabetized by the first significant word of the title. Ignore the words "A," "An," and "The" when putting your reference list in order. Begin the entry with the word "Anonymous" only if the work is signed "Anonymous." If the reference has no author and is not signed "Anonymous," then you can alphabetize it in the reference list. The title begins with a number, alphabetize the reference as though the number were spelled out. For example, you would alphabetize the number 22 as though it were written as the word "twenty-two." Alphabetical order of reference list example: Anonymous. (2020). Navigating the high seas. Sea Life. Park avenue summer. (2019). Penguin Random House. 22 new apple varieties. (1997). Food Magazine. Published October 28, 2020. How do I cite a source with no author or no date in APA? To cite a source with no author or no date in APA style, it is important that you know some basic information such as the title of the work, publisher if it is a book reference or volume and page details if it is a journal reference, and/or URL (uniform resource locator). The templates and examples for in-text citation and reference list entry of a book with no author and a book with no date are given below. Book with no author In-text citation template and example: Books with no author in general, but not always, are given as parenthetical citations. If the book does not have an author, cite it by its title. If the title is too long, shorten the title in the in-text citation. Title of the book, Publication Year) (The Cultural Politics of Emotion, 2014) Reference list entry template and example: Title of the book. (Publication Year). Publisher. The cultural politics of emotion. (2014). Edinburgh University Press The title of the book is in italics and sentence case. While arranging the reference entry alphabetically in the reference list, arrange the entry by treating the title as author name. Remember that articles (A, An, and The), if present at the beginning of the title, should not be considered for alphabetization. When you have a numeral used in the title, consider it to be in the spelled-out form and arrange it accordingly in the reference list. Book with no date In-text citation template and example: If you cite a book without a date, use "n.d." in place of the year. Narrative: Author Surname (Publication Year) Cohen (n.d.) Parenthetical: Author Surname (Publication Year) (Cohen, n.d.) Reference list entry template and example: Title of the book. (Publication Year). Publisher. Cohen, J. (n.d.). Statistical power analysis for the behavioural sciences (2nd ed.). Lawrence Erlbaum Associates. How do I cite a book in APA when no author is given? To cite a book with no author in APA style, it is important that you know some basic information such as the title of the book, publisher, and/or URL (uniform resource locator). The templates for in-text citation and reference list entry of a book along with examples are given below: In-text citation template and examples: Books with no author in general, but not always, are given as parenthetical citations. If the book does not have an author, cite it by its title. If the title is too long, shorten the title in the in-text citation even though the book title is set in sentence case in the reference list entry. A parenthetical citation might look like this: (Title of the Book, Publication Year) (Addressing Uncertainty in Oil and Natural Gas Industry, 2009) Reference list entry template and example: Title of the book. (Publication Year). Publisher. URL Addressing uncertainty in oil and natural gas inventories: Technical considerations and calculation methods. (2009). American Petroleum Institute. /media/Files/EHS/climate-change/Addressing_Uncertainty.pdf You need to set the title of the book in italics and sentence case. While arranging the reference entry alphabetically in the reference list, arrange the entry by treating the title as author name. Remember that articles (A, An, and The), if present at the beginning of the title, should not be considered for alphabetization. When you have a numeral used in the title, consider it to be in the spelled-out form and arrange it accordingly in the reference list. Helpful Tips When citing sources that you find on the Internet you only need to include a retrieval date if the information you viewed is likely to change over time. If you reference an article from a news source (e.g., CNN, NBC, Washington Post) or a site that may experience continuous updates, you would then need to include a retrieval date. New in 7th edition: You must include the site name in your citation, unless the site name is the same as the corporate author. For example, a citation of a CDC report would not include the site name. General Format   In-Text Citation (Paraphrase):   (Title of specific document, Year) NOTE: If the title of a document is long, use a shortened version for the in-text citations.   In-Text Citation (Quotation):   (Title of specific document, Year, page or paragraph number [if available])   References:

Title of specific document. (Last update or copyright date; if not known, put n.d.).   Title of website. URL of specific document Example   In-Text Citation (Paraphrase):   (Neurology, n.d.)   In-Text Citation (Quotation):   (Neurology, n.d.)   References: Neurology. (n.d.). Wikipedia. Retrieved August 8, 2007 from /wiki/Neurology Note: This page reflects the latest version of the APA Publication Manual (i.e., APA 7), which released in October 2019. The equivalent resource for the older APA 6 style can be found here. Important: Some electronic citations necessitate the use of brackets. APA style dictates that brackets should directly surround their content without spaces (e.g., [bracketed content] should look like this). When possible, include the year, month, and date in references. If the month and date are not available, use the year of publication. Additionally, APA 7th edition no longer requires the use of "Retrieved from" before URLs or DOIs; special exceptions, however, are made for resources that are regularly updated. Including the retrieval date for these sources indicates to readers that the version of the work they retrieve may be different than what was originally used. Please note: the following contains a list of the most commonly cited electronic sources. For a complete list of how to cite electronic sources, please refer to the 7th edition of the APA Publication Manual. Webpage or Piece of Online Content If the page names an individual author, cite their name first: Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of page. Site Name. URL If the resource was written by a group or organization, use the name of the group/organization as the author. Additionally, if the author and site name are the same, omit the site name from the citation. Group name. (Year, Month Date). Title of page. Site Name. URL If the page's author is not listed, start with the title instead. Additionally, include a retrieval date when the page's content is likely to change over time (like, for instance, if you're citing a wiki that is publicly edited). Title of page. (Year, Month Date). Site Name. Retrieved Month Date, Year, from URL If the date of publication is not listed, use the abbreviation (n.d.). Author or Group name. (n.d.). Title of page. Site Name (if applicable). URL Wikipedia Article APA 7 Wikipedia articles as special instances of entries in reference works. Thus, there are a few differences between reference entries for pages on Wikipedia and those for generic webpages. Title of article. (Year, Month Date). In Wikipedia. URL of archived version of page Wikipedia often updates content frequently. For this reason, the date refers to the date that the cited version of the page was published. Note also that the manual recommends linking to the archived version of the page, rather than the current version of the page on the site, since the latter can change over time. Access the archived version by clicking "View History," then clicking the date/timestamp of the version you'd like to cite. Online Scholarly Journal Article: Citing DOIs Please note: Because online materials can potentially change URLs, APA recommends providing a Digital Object Identifier (DOI), when it is available, as opposed to the URL. DOIs are an attempt to provide stable, long-lasting links for online articles. They are unique to their documents and consist of a long alphanumeric code. Many—but not all—publishers will provide an article's DOI on the first page of the document. Note also that some publishers provide an article's DOI but may "hide" the code under a button which may read "Article" or may be an abbreviation of a vendor's name like "Article" or "PubMed." This button will usually lead the user to the full article which will include the DOI. Find DOIs from print publications or ones that go to dead links with doi.org's "Resolve a DOI" function, available on the site's home page. APA 7 also advises writers to include a DOI (if available), even when using the print source. Article from an Online Periodical with DOI Assigned Lastname, F. M., & Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of article. Title of Periodical, Vol.(Issue), page numbers. DOI Drollinger, T., Comer, L. B., & Warrington, P. T. (2006). Development and validation of the active empathetic listening scale. Psychology & Marketing, 23(2), 161-180. Article from an Online Periodical with no DOI Assigned If an online scholarly journal article has no DOI and is published on a website, include the URL. If an online scholarly journal article has no DOI and is published on a database, do not include a URL or any database information. The only exception is for databases that publish articles that are in limited circulation (like ERIC) or that are only available on that particular database (like UpToDate). Note that retrieval dates are required for unarchived sources that are likely to change over time. Abstract APA 7th edition does not provide guidance on how to cite abstracts. However, if you only use information from the abstract but the full text of the article is also available, we advise you to add "[Abstract]" after the article or source name. If the full text is not available, you may use an abstract that is available through an abstracts database as a secondary source. Online News Article Note: The format for this type of source depends on whether your source comes from a site with an associated newspaper. If the source does come from a site with an associated newspaper, italicize the title of the article, but leave the name of the site unformatted. Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of article. Title of Publication. URL On the other hand, if the source doesn't come from a site with an associated newspaper, italicize the title of the article, but leave the name of the site unformatted. Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of article. Name of publishing website. URL Electronic or Kindle Books It is not necessary to note that you have used an eBook or audiobook when the content is the same as a physical book. However, you should distinguish between the eBook or audiobook and the print version if the content is different or abridged, or if you would like to cite the narrator of an audiobook. Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of book. Publisher. URL Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of book [eBook edition]. Publisher. URL Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of book [Audiobook]. Publisher. URL (if applicable) Dissertation/Thesis from a Database Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of dissertation or thesis (Publication No.) [Doctoral dissertation or master's thesis, Name of Institution Awarding Degree]. Database Name. Duis, J. M. (2008). Acid/base chemistry and related organic chemistry conceptions of undergraduate organic chemistry students (Publication No. 3348786) [Doctoral dissertation, University of Northern Colorado]. ProQuest Dissertations and Theses Global. Entry in an Online Dictionary, Thesaurus, or Encyclopedia with a Group Author Note: An online dictionary, thesaurus, or encyclopedia may be continuously updated and therefore not include a publication date (like in the example below). If that's the case, use "n.d." for the date and include the retrieval date in the citation. Institution or organization name. (Year). Title of entry. In Title of reference work. URL Entry in an Online Dictionary, Thesaurus, or Encyclopedia with an Individual Author Lastname, F. M. (Year). Title of entry. In F. M. Lastname (Ed.), Title of reference work (edition). Publisher. URL or DOI Note: If the dictionary, thesaurus, or encyclopedia does not include an edition, simply skip that step. Data Sets Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group (Year). Title of dataset (Version No.) [Data set]. Publisher. DOI or URL Graphic Data (e.g. Interactive Maps, Infographics, and Other Graphic Representations of Data) Give the name of the organization or individual followed by the date and the title. If there is no title, in brackets, you should provide a brief explanation of what type of data is there and in what form it appears. Include the URL and the retrieval date if there is no publication date. Qualitative Data and Online Interviews If an interview is not retrievable in audio or print form, cite the interview only in the text (not in the reference list) and provide the month, day, and year in text. If the interview transcript is published in an online periodical, like a magazine, cite the interview the same way you would cite the medium where it is published, as shown below: If it is an audio file or transcript published in a database, credit the interviewee as the author and use the following model: Online Lecture Notes and Presentation Slides When citing online lecture notes, be sure to provide the file format in brackets after the lecture title (e.g. PowerPoint slides, Word document). Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of presentation [Lecture notes, PowerPoint slides, etc]. Publisher. URL Computer Software/Downloaded Software Do not cite standard office software (e.g. Word, Excel) or programming languages. Provide references only for specialized software. Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group. (Year). Title of software (Version No.). Publisher. URL Note: If the software is available via an app, use the following model: Online Lecture Notes and Presentation Slides When citing online lecture notes, be sure to provide the file format in brackets after the lecture title (e.g. PowerPoint slides, Word document). Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of software (Version No.). Publisher. URL Email E-mails are not included in the list of references, though you should parenthetically cite them in your main text: (E. Robbins, personal communication, January 4, 2001). Online Forum or Discussion Posting Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group [username]. (Year, Month Date). Title of post [Online forum post]. Publisher. URL Tweet Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group [@username]. (Year, Month Date). Content of the post up to the first 20 words[Tweet]. Site Name. URL Note: If the tweet includes images, videos, or links to other sources, indicate that information in brackets after the content description. Also attempt to replicate emojis if possible. National Geographic [@NatGeo]. (2020, January 12). Scientists knew African grays are clever, but now they've been documented assisting other members of their species—even strangers [Tweet; thumbnail link to article]. Twitter. Twitter Profile Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group [@username]. (n.d.). Tweets [Twitter profile]. Retrieved Month Date, Year, from URL Facebook Post Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group. (Year, Month Date). Content of the post up to the first 20 words [Type of post]. Site Name. URL Note: If the Facebook post includes images, videos, or links to other sources, indicate that information in brackets after the content description. Also attempt to replicate emojis if possible. Facebook Page Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group. (n.d.). Home [Facebook page]. Site Name. Retrieved Month Date, Year, from URL. Instagram Photo or Video Lastname, F. M. or Name of Group [@username]. (Year, Month Date). Content of the post up to the first 20 words [Type of post]. Site Name. URL BBC [@bbc]. (2020, January 12). Skywatchers have been treated to the first full moon of 2020-known as a "wolf moon"-at the same time as a [Photograph]. Instagram. Blog Post Lastname, F. M. (Year, Month Date). Title of post. Publisher. URL YouTube or other Streaming Video Lastname, F. M. [Username]. (Year, Month Date). Title of video [Video]. Streaming Service. URL Note: The person or group who uploaded the video is considered the author. If the author's name is the same as the username, you can omit the [Username]. Ted Talk Author, A. A. (Year, Month Date). Title of talk [Video]. TED. URL Or (if on YouTube) Username. (Year, Month Date). Title of talk [Video]. YouTube. URL Podcast Episode Host, A. A. (Host). (Year, Month Date). Title of episode (No. if provided) [Audio podcast episode]. In Name of podcast. Publisher. URL Do you want to include a website in your APA 7 style paper, but it has no author? How you cite a website in APA with no author is to use the article's title instead. Although it is acceptable to include information from sources with no author listed in your APA website citation, make sure it at least comes from a reliable website, such as a government entity, university, or reputable organization. How To Reference a Website With No Author Name Listed – APA 7th Edition Online citations in APA style have four different components: the author, date, title, publisher, and URL. Many times, especially in local newspapers, articles are printed as staff articles or without any author's name listed. If you do not know the author's name or the article's date, you can still cite a webpage in your APA 7 style reference list by using the title of the article. Format for News Website With No Author APA Title of the article. (year, Month day). News Organization. URL (no period after the URL) APA News Website With No Author – Reference List Example Concert raises thousands for earthquake victims. (2019, August 9). The News Review. 500,000 Oregon residents evacuate statewide due to wildfires. (2020, September 10). HuffPost. APA Journal Website With No Author – Reference List Example Language learning with the unique language used today. (2019, August 20). Psychological Review, 1-15. APA Magazine Website With No Author – Reference List Example Stars who battled eating disorders. (2020, August 20). Us Weekly. Note: The style of the title follows the format it would take without the author missing. Therefore, it includes italics or no italics as needed. Online newspaper articles with a print version follow the format of a magazine. Citing a Website With No Author & No Date APA When making an APA website citation with a print version follow the format of a magazine. Citing a Website With No Author & No Date APA Title of the publication. (n.d.). Website. URL APA Website No Author, No Date – Reference List Example FREE MLA & APA citation generator (n.d.). Bibliography.com. How to Cite a Website With an Anonymous Author – APA Another situation you might encounter in your APA research paper citations is an anonymous author of a website. Rather than listing the title as you would for no author, you use "anonymous" as your author. Format for Website With an Anonymous Author Anonymous. (Date). Title. Publication. URL APA Citation for a Website Anonymous Author – Reference List Example Anonymous. (n.d.). Understanding the human brain. Psychology Today. How to In-Text Cite a Website With No Author – APA When creating an in-text citation in APA without an author, you use the title. For the in-text citation, use only the first few words if it's a long title. Use the full title if it's a shorter title. In-Text Citation Example for APA No Author (Concert Raises Thousands, 2019) ("Language Learning," 2019) In-Text Citation Example for Anonymous Author Note: Italicize in-text citations in APA that are italicized in the reference list. Quotations go around words that are not italicized, like magazine articles, per section 8.14 of the APA manual. Additionally, in-text citations use title case. Example of an APA citation example citation in APA style have four different components: the organization is the author of the article. In this case, you'll include the organization's name for the author position. Reference List Example for Organization Author Experts. (2019, August 11). 20 Tips for great job interviews. If there is no date available, use n.d. in place of the year. Experts. (n.d.). 20 Tips for great job interviews. In-Text Citation Examples for Organization Authors (Experts, 2019) (Experts, n.d.) Tips for Evaluating Online Articles It doesn't matter if you're writing a short essay or a research paper; you can use online articles with no authors as sources. Just be sure to include reliable primary and secondary sources to back up your research. Therefore, your research should focus on finding authoritative sources. One way to establish authority is to inspect the author's name and professional background. For example, if an article describes how to treat a medical condition, you would undoubtedly want to know the author's credentials before following any advice. Although you may find articles with no author listed on reputable sites, it is better to establish the authority of your article by using sources written by established authors. If you find a random article that seems "formula" created with no listed author or references, bypass that source to find a better one for your APA format paper. No Author, No Problem When it comes to creating a website citation in your reference list or in-text without an author, it's not as hard as you think. You need to make sure you follow APA rules for citations and include the title first. When it comes to citations, APA has every situation covered. And if you need more information about your APA reference page, check out the APA reference page guide. Finding Free Primary Sources for Your School Essay Finding Public Domain Sources for Your Class Essay To reference a website without an author in APA, the title of the article moves up to the first position in the citation. An example of a no author citation looks like: Title of the article. (year, Month day). Website. URL (no period after the URL) When you have a website in APA 7 with no author, you use the title, date, publisher, and URL. There is no period after the URL in the citation. Additionally, a website title is in italics. To cite a website in APA format, you need the author, date, title of the article, name of website, and URL. You will not place a period after the URL and the website article title is in italics. A website citation example looks like: Betts, J. (n.d.) How to Cite a Website. Bibliography.com. When an article is authored by an organization in APA, then you use the organization's full name with no acronyms. An organization example citation in APA looks like: Organization. (Date). Title of the article. URL. When an article reference in APA has no author and no date, you start with the title of the article then you follow it with (n.d.) which stands for no date. An example of a citation with no author and no date looks like: Title of the article. (n.d.). Organization. URL. Include the title of the blog message post as well as the URL. You do not italicize the titles for items in online communities such as blogs, newsgroups or forum. If the author's name is not available, provide the screen name. General Format In-Text Citation (Paraphrase):   (Author Surname OR Screen name, Year) References (Twitter profile): In-Text Citation (Quotation):   (Author Surname OR Screen name, Year) References   Author Surname, First Initial. Second Initial. OR Author screen name (as it appears on the blog). (Year, Month Day {of post}). Title of specific post. Title of website (if needed). URL of specific post [Blog post] Title of the date of a Web page? Usually the date is available at the bottom of the Web page. It may state last updated, last modified or last reviewed. If there is no date available then use (n.d.) for no date. Websites have become popular sources of information for students and researchers by considering the rule of the APA 7th edition format. In this case, websites carry tons of data, including texts, images, and videos that writers can use as evidence. According to academic writing standards, when students gather evidence from websites, they must cite it appropriately not only in the References page but also within in-text citations by considering their essays and research papers. However, some sites lack essential credentials for citation entries for the APA format. In summary, when citing a website with no author in APA 7, a student should write the name of the site and the URL. Moreover, when a site lacks a publication date, scholars should use n.d., and, when there is no known author, they should use a shortened version of the title and enclose it within quotation marks. In turn, if there is no title, authors should use a short description of the article and enclose it within square brackets. The Internet is a platform that allows individuals and organizations to display texts, images, and videos, all of which are popularly known as content. Moreover, to do so, they have to create a website that serves as their online shops. In other words, websites help individuals and organizations to inform others, such as customers and researchers, about what they offer (products, services, and knowledge). For organizations, a website is an online face – the platform that fosters interaction with the entity. Ideally, a website has several online pages known as webpages that carry important information about an individual or organization. Therefore, a website can be defined as a central, online platform composed of web pages. In turn, a web browser enables an individual to navigate through this platform. Types of Websites Given that individuals and organizations use websites to facilitate interaction with the world, the Internet is home to billions of websites today. As a result, these websites fall into different categories, such as: Blogs E-commerce website. Gaming website. Business/corporate website. Content website. Dating website. Government websites. When writing academic texts in APA 7, such as theses and dissertations, students should use evidence to back their claims and arguments. Occasionally, it is challenging to find the evidence to back their claims and arguments. Occasionally, it is challenging to find reference citations on some websites. Basically, one of the reasons for this challenge is that anyone can post content on a website without needing to indicate the date, their name, or even the title of their content. In turn, this information is necessary for an APA website reference citation. Choose WriYer Team for reliable, plagiarism-free papers that meet your specific requirements.Order Essay Example of the features of citing a website in APA 7 or any web-based content is the date of publication. Basically, the time when it is published allows readers to know how old the content is and whether it passes the test of being the most recent information. In academic writing, instructors insist on using the most recent information as the basis of a writer's argument. Therefore, if web-based content lacks a date of publication, students should substitute the year with the initials n.d., which indicates "no date." An example of such a website citation in APA 7 is as follows: Culbertson, M. (n.d.). Conflict management strategies and styles. Southern Nazarene University. Retrieved from hculbert/conflict.htm The APA in-text citation for a website without a date of publication should be: Culbertson (n.d.) states that conflict management is an essential skill of effective leadership. Sometimes, web-based content may lack an author, whether an individual or corporation. For example, when there is no individual author, a writer uses the name of the organization instead. By considering the APA citation, when both are missing, students should use the title of the content – book, article, or document – as the author. An example of the APA citation of a web-based article without a known individual author is as follows: Science, social science, and sociology. (2015). Open Textbooks for Hong Kong. Retrieved from The in-text citation for the APA citation of a website with no author should be: ("Science, Social Science, and Sociology," 2015), or According to the article "Science, Social Science, and Sociology" (2015), social science... If there is no known date, the APA citation of a website article with no author should be: Bachelor of science in nursing. (n.d.). College of Nursing. Retrieved from Examples of the APA in-text citation with no author and no date are: ("Bachelor of Science in Nursing," n.d.), or According to the article "Bachelor of Science in Nursing" (n.d.), pursuing a nursing graduate degree is ... How to Cite a Website Without a Title of an Article When students cite web-based content as a source of information in APA 7, they should use a description of the content – book or article – as the title in italics. The scheme of the APA reference citation for a website with no title of an article should be: Author's Last Name, First and Middle Names' initials. (Publication Year, Month Day). Description of document. Website Title. Retrieved from URL. An example is as follows: Worland, J. (2015, July 27). Flood risk in the US Times. Retrieved from The APA in-text citation for a website without a title of an article is as follows: Worland, J. (2015) or a Times news article, Worland (2015) calls on the federal government.... When a writer uses web-based content with no known author or publication date in APA 7, they should use the format described above for content without a known author and content without a publication date. In short, they should use the title as the author and the initials n.d. for the date. Scheme sample for the APA website citation with no date and no author: Article title. (n.d.). Website Title. Retrieved from URL An example of citing an explanation in the APA website citation is as follows: Bachelor of science in nursing. (n.d.). College of Nursing. Retrieved from URL An example of an APA in-text citation samples of a website with no date and no author are: Nursing education is fundamental to quality health care delivery ("Bachelor of Science in Nursing," n.d.), or The article "Bachelor of Science in Nursing" (n.d.) describes nursing education... When students cite web-based content without publication date and title in APA 7, they should use the format of the content without publication date and content without a title, as described above. Format of the reference citation should is: Organization Title/Author names. (n.d.). Description of the article. Website Title. Retrieved from URL. An example is as follows: US Congress. (n.d.). Health insurance tax relief act of 2018. TrackBill. Retrieved from URL. An example of an APA reference citation for a website with no title should be: The 2018 Health Insurance Tax Relief Act has undergone critical stages, indicating that Congress may pass it before the year closes ("US Congress," n.d.), or The article by "US Congress" (n.d.) highlights the progress made in the enactment of a seemingly controversial law. Receive personalized assistance from our writers, ensuring your paper is both original and tailored to your needs.Get New Example When students cite a website content without a known author or title in APA 7, the APA reference citation should capture the content without any author and content without a title. Structure of the reference citation for an APA 7 should be: Shortened title. (Year, Month Day). Website Title. Retrieved from URL Example of a website reference with no title and no author is: Legislation. (2019). Gardner Senate. Retrieved from Examples of in-text should with no title and no author are: The political class considers delaying the Obamacare Tax to pave the way for bipartisan consultation ("Legislation," 2019), or In the article "Legislation" (2019), the US Senate... When scholars cite web-based content without a known author, date of publication, and title in APA 7, they should use entries described above. The APA reference citation sample for a website with no title, no date, and no author should be: Shortened title. (n.d.). Website Title. Retrieved from URL An example would be: Legislation. (n.d.). Gardner Senate. Retrieved from Note: The above example assumes the content had no date of publication. The in-text citation should be: A lack of bipartisanship in the Senate threatens to derail Obamacare Tax ("Legislation," n.d.), or The article "Legislation" (n.d.) provides the dynamics surrounding the passage of Obamacare Tax. When writing academic texts, students and researchers rely on web-based content to back up their arguments. Basically, this content includes articles, books, and videos, among others. Hence, some essential tips that students and researchers must master include: Put the title of the article in italics. Indicate the website name (without italics). Put a period after the website name, followed by the phrase "Retrieved from" and URL. When there is no date of publication, use the initials "n.d." If there is no known author, use the title of the online article as the author in italics. If there is no title, use a short description of the article as the title in italics.