The second series in the Power Universe, Power Book II: Ghost premiered on the Starz Network in 2020. The plot of the popular crime series revolves around Tariq St. Patrick (Michael Rainey Jr.), the son of James St. Patrick, aka Ghost (Omari Hardwick), who tries to walk the straight and narrow after following in his father's drug-dealing footsteps. The compelling character drama works best when it crystallizes Tariq's conflict between his family's criminal endeavors and his desire to forge his own path. As rumors continue to swirl about Power Book II: Ghost's fourth season return in 2024, the current downtime presents the perfect opportunity to get acquainted with the main cast of characters and the terrific actors who play them. From Method Man and Mary J. Blige to Larenz Tate, and more, it's time to meet the outstanding cast of Power Book II: Ghost. Michael Rainey Jr. — Tariq St. James Starz Michael Rainey Jr. depicts Tariq St. Patrick in Power Book II. As mentioned, Michael is the son of Ghost, whose story was chronicled in the original Power series. In the series sequel, Tariq slowly begins to take over his family's successful but dangerous drug-dealing business in New York. Much like his father, Tariq's biggest cross to bear is leaving his illicit life behind to forge a better life for his family, and use his budding education to do so legally. By portraying Tariq in all six seasons of Power and another 30 in Power Book II, the character is by far the most significant role Rainey Jr. has played thus far in his young career. Before landing such an accomplished role, Rainey Jr. notably starred as Michael Bursett in the hit Netflix original series, Orange Is the New Black. Far from being limited to the small screen, Rainey Jr. can also be seen in Barbershop: The Next Cut, and the Netflix basketball drama Amateur. Starz Gianni Paolo plays Brayden Weston in Power Book II. Brayden is Tariq's best friend and classmate from Choate boarding school and roommate at Stansfield University. Due to his wealthy privileges through his family's Wall Street hedge fund, Weston Holdings, Brayden uses his vast connections to help Tariq grow his illegal drug business. Brayden was introduced in the original Power series and takes on a much larger role in the sequel. Given his lack of experience playing a long-term TV role, it's a testament to Paolo's acting aplomb and his chemistry with Rainey Jr. that Brayden is so convincing in Power Book II. After all, Paolo's previous TV experience includes single episodic appearances in The Mick, The Fosters, and Chance. However, those who've seen Tate Taylor's Netflix horror film, Ma, is sure to recall seeing Paolo in the role of Chaz. It's also worth noting that Paolo and Rainey Jr. co-host the Power podcast series, The Crew Has It. Starz Shane Johnson depicts Cooper Saxe in the acclaimed Starz original TV show. Another key crossover character from Power, Cooper is Tariq's high-powered defense attorney. Cooper does everything he can to protect Tariq and keep him out of legal trouble, even though he spent years trying to put his father Ghost behind bars. Caught in a moral bind, Cooper also makes enemies with the Tejada family. Tariq's ruthless rival drug-running family. After making his big screen debut in Saving Private Ryan, Johnson has mounted an impressive resume. While Cooper Saxe is by far his most substantial role to date, Johnson has appeared in everything from Scandal and Blue Bloods to the horror movie The Possession of Michael King. Johnson can also be seen in the upcoming movies Death Everlasting and Decade of the Dead. Starz Woody McClain portrays Lorenzo "Cane" Tejada. Cane is the eldest son of Monet and Lorenzo and the older brother of Dru and Diana. Striking fear into the hearts and minds of viewers, Cane is the cut-throat leader of the Tejada family's drug dealings and serves as Tariq's chief rival in the series. Unlike the aforementioned characters who all appeared in Power, Cane is a new addition to the sequel and doesn't disappoint. Related: These moments managed to keep audiences on the edge of their seats, staying with them for a long time afterwards. Despite launching his career in 2017, McClain has amassed a solid resume thus far. He flashed his comedic chops and musical talents as famed R&B singer Bobby Brown in both The New Edition Story and The Bobby Brown Story. Cinematically, McClain has given memorable turns in the stylish Netflix neo-western The Harder They Fall, and most recently, the 2023 Mel Gibson action-thriller Desperation Road. Starz Lovell Adams-Gray plays Dru Tejada in the TV crime sequel. Starkly opposed to his ruthless older brother, Dru is the middle child of the Tejada family who has an artistic soul. Dru's main conflict includes his aversion to his family's drug dealing endeavors, and he works hard to forge his own independent path. Alas, much like Tariq, Dru learns that old habits die hard, especially when feeling the pressure of his family to maintain their legacy. Adams-Gray has spent most of his career working on various TV projects. Although he did not appear in the original Power, Adams-Gray has played recurring characters in such TV shows as Netflix's disturbing horror original show Slasher, as well as Coroner, and Second Jen. After starring in the acclaimed 2022 musical drama Brother, fans should keep an out for Adams-Gray in the upcoming thriller Virus, which is currently in post-production. Starz Mary J. Blige plays Monet Stewart Tejada, the matriarch of the Tejada family. In addition to operating the Tejada drug cartel, Monet is left to take care of her children Cane, Dru, and Diana after her husband Lorenzo is given a 25-year prison sentence. As the series progresses, Monet's resolve is severely tested when he recruits Tariq, which draws the jealous ire of Cane who feels threatened by Tariq's intelligence and business acumen. Related In recognition of the tremendous accomplishments of Black artists throughout music history, here are the best biopics about Black music icons. A superstar R&B singer and talented actor, Mary J. Blige has been an entertainment icon since the early '90s. The world-famous performer made her acting debut in a 1998 episode of The Jamie Foxx Show. Since then, Blige has continued to expand her big and small screen presence by appearing in everything from Rock of Ages and Mudbound to The Umbrella Academy and Scream: The TV Series. However, to really see her at the top of her game, fans ought to keep out about Blige's performance as Dinah Washington in the Aretha Franklin biopic, Respect.

Starz Wu-Tang Clan member Method Man depicts Davis MacLean in Power Book II. Davis is a high-powered defense attorney who's made a reputation for winning cases without needing to use the truth. Tariq hires Davis to get his mother Tasha out of prison, but Davis has his own agenda and is willing to betray his client if it benefits his social standing. Like many of the main characters in the show, the gradual devolution from anti-hero to antagonist is what she's made the drama so compelling. One of the most charismatic rappers on record, Method Man famously collaborated with Mary J. Blige in the timeless 1994 hit song, "All I Need." Given his natural on-screen command, it's no surprise that Method Man has gone on to become one of the best and most accomplished rapper-turned-actors of his generation. After showing his comedic chops in the classic stoner comedy How High, Method Man has evolved his talent to give superb dramatic turns in everything from the highly acclaimed show The Wire to The Deuce, Garden State, and The Godfather of Harlem. Starz LaToya Tonodeo plays Diana Tejada, the youngest child of Monet and the sister of Cane and Dru. Diana is also Tariq's classmate at Stansfield University, who becomes his romantic interest. This puts her in direct conflict between her own family and the St. James family, and she uses her advantageous position to play both sides from the middle. When Diana finds out who put her father Lorenzo in jail, a shocking twist of vengeance ensues. Considering what a pivotal part she plays in the show, it's somewhat surprising that Diana is the most significant character Tonodeo has played thus far in her young career. Tonodeo's previous recurring TV work includes playing Tara Byrd in The Oath and Ashley in The Fosters. Not limited to television, fans may also recall seeing Tonodeo in such movies as The Perfect Match and The Head Thieves. Starz Larenz Tate portrays Councilman Rashad Tate in Power Book II. Rashad has a history with Tariq's father Ghost, which plays out in dramatic fashion. In the past, Tate was Ghost's main rival and political opponent when he ran for office. Presently, Tate teaches Ethics at Stansfield University where Tariq and Diana prepare to earn their degrees. Despite teaching Ethics, Tate is a dirty politician willing to do anything to become the state governor. Tate is a versatile actor who has appeared in some of the most popular movies of the 1990. Whether starring as O Dog in the all-time-great Black gangster movie Menace II Society, Drew in The Inkelwell, or Curtis in Dead Presidents, Tate was able to play terrifying gangsters and sensitive teenagers with equally convincing results. More recently, Tate has made his impression in such popular TV shows as Rescue Me, Me and House of Lies. Starz Paige Hurd plays Lauren Baldwin. Lauren is Tariq's former classmate and ex-girlfriend who finds herself in direct danger due to her association with the St. James family. For instance, Lauren is forced to go into hiding after someone put a hit on her and failed the assassination attempt. Although Tariq feels bad for putting Lauren in such a position, there's only so much he can do to protect her in the long run. Hurd began her career as a child actor and landed her first big breakout movie role opposite Mike Myers in The Cat in the Hat. Beyond Power Book II, Hurd's most memorable recurring TV roles include portraying Tasha in Everybody Hates Chris, and Gayle Franklin in The Oval, proving her deft ability to play comedy and drama alike. Perhaps most famously, Hurd starred as Justin Bieber's love interest in the music video for his hit single, "Never Let You Go." Omari Hardwick's Ghost may be dead, but plenty of familiar faces from Starz's Power live on in the Power Book II: Ghost cast. Following the aftermath of Tariq St. Patrick (Michael Rainey Jr.) murdering his father — and his mother Tasha (Naturi Naughton) taking the blame for him, both actors are joined in the spinoff by fellow alumni, including Shane Johnson (Cooper Saxe). There are plenty of newcomers too, including powerhouse Grammy winners Mary J. Blige and Clifford "Method Man" Smith. Referencing Method Man's 1994 track, "Bring the Pain," Power executive producer 50 Cent revealed on XXL's Hip-Hop Moments of Clarity podcast that he "was begging" and "had to work to get" the Wu-Tang Clan member to join Power Book II. "The difference with Mary [J. Blige] and Meth is that these are my stars," he said on the podcast before breaking into song. "People who are stars when I'm just in the neighborhood looking at the TV. Like I said, it's a different thing when you're on the bus saying, 'I came to bring the pain, it's hardcore from the brain...' "If your favorite Power characters aren't in this spinoff, however, there are still three more, and (and counting) in the works. "We are patterning it after Marvel, where different characters come in and out of other people's shows," creator Courtney Kemp told Entertainment Weekly after the Power series finale. "So there's crossovers and some of your favorite characters will come back, even if they don't get their own spinoff; they will show up in places. We're trying to really do it for the fans, to give them most of what they want."Get to know more about those who will be in Power Book II below.Michael Rainey Jr. (Tariq St. Patrick)The 19-year-old Orange Is the New Black alum is continuing the role he's played in since 2014.
