Operating since 2006, Australian Trade Training College (RTO 31399) is a not-for-profit Registered Training Organisation with significant experience in the delivery of quality training and assessment services. We specialise in the delivery of training and assessments for a wide range of trade areas, from certificate through to diploma level qualifications. Trades include automotive, building and construction, business, electrotechnology, hospitality, plumbing and more. We are leaders in providing industry-driven training, supported by ongoing engagement with industry partners and employers. Australian Trade Training College is part of MRAEL, which sits within the IntoWork Group. It's National Careers Week - so when better to share a great success story about Cameron starting his career. Cameron kicked off his journey with our Engineer Your Career program in January 2025, and it didn't take long for him to discover his passion for Boilermaking & Fabrication! He shared, The trainers were friendly and always there to guide me, creating a great learning environment. The bonus driving lessons and site visit really gave me a deeper understanding of the industry! After completing the program, Cameron took the next step and enrolled in our Next Step Engineering course, which helped him gain even more confidence in his skills and knowledge. He found this next stage straightforward saying, It was a smooth transition into the industry with support from trainers, admins, and the Project Officer. Then came the exciting part - Camerons work experience placement! Arranged at a company advertising 4-year fabrication apprenticeships, this trial period was the perfect match for both sides. And guess what? Cameron got the official thumbs up for the apprenticeship! Now, Cameron is gearing up for his 4-year apprenticeship journey, and he couldn't be more excited about the future. Congratulations, Cameron! Were so proud of your success and cant wait to see where your engineering career takes you! #ATTC#TradesTraining#NationalCareersWeek The Australian Trade Training College has partnered with GBG Construction Services to enhance their teams skills through short courses and apprenticeships. GBG Construction recognises the importance of maintaining up-to-date skills, particularly in terms of workplace health & safety and compliance, given the high-risk environments they work in. We developed customised training solutions specifically for their needs, ensuring they received exactly what they needed and delivered tangible value to their business. Skye is a shining example of initiative and dedication, currently enrolled in our new pre-employment program, Next Step, at Australian Trade Training College (ATTC). She is working towards her CPC10120 Certificate I in Construction and has consistently impressed everyone with her commitment and enthusiasm. One of the things that sets Skye apart is her proactive approach. She keeps the workshop clean and offers valuable suggestions for improvements, such as keeping the benches clear of clutter and creating more space for everyone to work together. Even more impressively, she has taken the initiative to make her own toolbox by hand and has even purchased her own tools to bring to her work experience at ALJAY Cabinets. Skye's open communication and clear drive to succeed will undoubtedly make her an asset to any worksite. Her journey at ATTC is a testament to the benefits of our Next Step program, which is designed to equip students with the skills and confidence they need to excel in their chosen careers. We are thrilled to have Skye as part of our community and are excited to see her continue to grow and succeed. Well done, Skye! Proudly part of IntoWork Australia #NextStep#ATTC#WomeninTrades We're happy to work with Migration Mate. They help people understand the complexity of visa applications for moving to Australia. Recently, one of our services, the ATTC Skills Assessment, played a crucial role in assisting a talented chef from overseas. Our team provided a comprehensive skills assessment, ensuring their qualifications and experience were recognised at the Australian chef level. This recognition was a vital step in completing their visa application, making their dream of moving to Australia a reality. Migrating to a new country can be challenging, but with the right support, it can also be incredibly rewarding. We are committed to making this process smoother and more accessible for everyone. Thank you, Britt Tablos at Migration Mate for your trust and collaboration. Heres to many more successful stories together! Organisation does not attract and retain quality. Managers appointed on friendship, family members or those who will say 'yes' to Exec.5 people found this helpfulAll Gold Coast QLDPotential to be brilliant. The good thingsFantastic concept. Very genuine and passionate CEO. Some equally passionate and knowledgeable staff and a lot of support to help young people connect with industry. The challengesMajor issues with some management such as lack of communication, zero knowledge of what is happening in their departments, not listening, not observing. This results in some of the most highly praised and highly paid staff totally forcing the company by doing almost no work while the truly valuable staff who are actually doing all the work leave the company in frustration. Its a shame because it could be fantastic on every level if management observed and understood who their most valuable staff are. 4 people found this helpfulAdministration RoleMar 2023Best decision I made was to apply for a job at ATTC. The good thingsWonderful workplace culture filled with passionate staff. Each day is different and exciting, working in a supportive and collaborative 'deliberately different' school. The focus remains on student growth and achievement, not 'bums on seats' like the majority of independent schools. The challengesInitially the model was tricky to understand after working in the 'traditional' school setting, but this challenge was quickly overcome. 2 people found this helpfulLeadership and managementMar 2023A great place to work with supportive leadership. Something different every day. The good thingsATTC is a deliberately different educational experience. There is so much diversity. It is never mundane and we enjoy something different every day.. I worked in a "normal" school for years and when I came here I found the challenges to be invigorating and exciting. A school built for helping our young people with a trade program is enlightening. I enjoy great support from my colleagues and leadership. It has great PD opportunities and here you really can shine. The challengesBecause AITC is not like your normal everyday school some may find it challenging, however, if you are up for a distinct experience with great support, friendly staff and something different, this could be the place for you. I person found this helpfulAdministration CoordinatorFeb 20239 to 10 years in the role, current employeeAITC is a friendly and rewarding place to be a part of. The good thingsThe Australian Industry Trade College is a deliberately different school on the Gold Coast. Young people have the opportunity to do an education pathway to complete their QCE, whilst being offered the opportunity to gain work experience in a number of different industries throughout their 3 years of schooling, which will lead to a school based apprenticeship in the field of their choice. Young people gain resilience and grow into young adults. Young people graduate, they continue their apprenticeship in a fulltime capacity. Staff are committed to every young person and mentor the young people to succeed beyond ATTC. The challengesAITC work closely with industry partners to acquire the current needs that evolve. There is no challenge to great. Each day is different for both staff and young people. We have values and expectations that are firm and set in stone and guide each person to succeed in the right direction. Less than 1 year in the role, current employeeCompletely unlike any school I have come across before... Engaged staff, enthusiastic young people, achieving tangible outcomes. The good thingsAITC is a deliberately different school for people that know industry is the path that they want to choose. AITC gives young people the opportunity to grow personally, gain their QCE qualification as well as trial a range of different industry experiences before commencing their apprenticeship while still at school. I have taught in Public, Private and Catholic sectors across NSW and QLD, this is like nothing I have seen before in preparing young people for success. The staff are passionate and engaged, young people want to learn the content as it is related to industry and young people receive opportunities in industry to try a range of careers before having to decide which path they want to head down. The challengesAs AITC is deliberately different, there is always something happening. If you like mundane education where you repeat the same content year after year or traditional teaching, this may not be the place for you. Administration RoleFeb 20231 to 2 years in the role, current employeeA job I take pride in and a school that has given my son an amazing pathway! The good thingsNot only do I love my job and the amazing team I work with but I am also a mother of a son that attends AITC. I could not wish for a better school for my son. They have high standards and expectations in staff and young people but we both get the support we need to achieve. The challengesEveryday is new so you must adapt to suit and that applies in my job and for my son during his education block and industry block, but all are great challenges.Secondary TeacherFeb 2023Current employeeTo succeed at AITC as a teacher you need to have life experience and be able to contextualise that experience into an education setting. You also need to be working with Young People, and want to see them succeed in life. The good thingsAITC is definitely an education disrupter. It turns the traditional academic model on its head and puts work ethic and character education first. Having worked and burned out in traditional schools AITC gets a lot right about educating the students who are not academic. The company allows a good work life balance with time to complete your work during work hours. The challengesTo succeed as a Teacher at AITC you need to be able to develop strong relationships with the students. Don't be adversarial with them, establish expectations and be firm but at the same time treat them as young people who need guiding in the right direction.Project ManagerFeb 20233 to 4 years in the role, current employeeA great team and enjoy coming to work. The good thingsSupportive TeamHigh standard and expectations - drives to constantly improveSupport both professionally and personallyA lot of funDiversity in day to day tasksThe challengesWith being busy (a good thing) sometimes difficult to find the 'right time' to take leave.Assistant PrincipalFeb 2023Less than 1 year in the role, current employeeA very exciting and supportive place to work - with a deliberate difference. The good thingsAITC is a private school which is deliberately different. AITC is all about preparing young people for their future careers in industry. As I have just started with AITC in the last month, I am overwhelmed with the welcoming support given me, to achieve my newly appointed role. The challengesAs AITC is a school of difference, I am conscious about developing the AITC values so I fit into an already established culture of excellence.Industry Operations ManagerFeb 20237 to 8 years in the role, current employeeThe AITC continues to support my career progression and allows the opportunity to develop on so many levels. I enjoy being part of a passionate dedicated team who have tremendous impact, but aren't afraid to have fun too. The good thingsProud to work for a company who prides themselves on being 'Deliberately Different' and passionate about championing young people to find their true purpose and passion. Great to work for an organisation who contributes so much to community, society and and valued by industry. The challengesThe day to day of helping young people realise their potential but well worth the effort.Leadership and ManagementFeb 20231 to 4 years in the role, current employeeI love working for the AITC, where every day I feel like I am making a big difference in the lives of great young people. The good thingsA fantastic program that fulfills a need in our community - supporting young people with vocational pathways and finding opportunities in industry. The focus on the development of the young person and supporting their journey is brilliant. The challengesThe pace of change can be a challenge, as the college is industry driven, so we adapt and flex to support the needs of industry as well as supporting the development of the young people.Education OfficerFeb 2023Pioneering, busy, challenging, rewarding, deliberately different College. The good thingsThe Team Leaders (teachers) are very supportive of new staff, are very Collegial and show genuine care for each other. There is a focus on the Young Person (student) experience, and staff care for each YP and their future in industry. The challengesIf Team Leaders expect to just "deliver" their subject content, like in traditional education institutions, this is not the place for them. The teaching will challenge you to engage YP in their learning, contextualise it for the world of work, develop skills that are vital for work... it is about developing the whole person.For admin staff, IT, College Leaders, it is a dynamic place with lots of projects and challenges as we push educational boundaries and move forward with new campuses in Industry (Boating Industry Academy as an example).Shared ServicesFeb 2023Less than 1 year in the role, current employeeI am excited to be a part of this organisation and to be part of its future growth and development. The good thingsSupportive environment with a clear focus and great potential for professional growth. A values driven organisation, with an amazing team environment and excellent communication. The challengesNone. So far it has been a very positive start to the year and to my role. Assistant PrincipalFeb 20233 to 4 years in the role, current employeeAn innovative educational model that is being noticed by industry and schooling alike The good thingsEntrepreneurial culture and staff. An agile, caring work environment that genuinely supports staff and young people to find their purpose. The challengesThe need to be flexible and continually improve can be challenging for some people. AdmininstratorFeb 20231 to 2 years in the role, current employeeA welcoming and supportive team that believes in what they do. The good thingsPersonal development opportunities, dynamic workplace, make a difference. The challengesRequiring you to challenge the status quo.Industry consultant Sep 20223 to 4 years in the role, current employeeThe Australian industry trade college is providing a positive model that will see great industry leaders for the future. I have been supported along my journey with AITC and given opportunities that have developed me professionally, ideas for organisational growth have been supported and everyone has a voice in my experience working with the AITC. The good thingsThe AITC is like no other secondary school. The rewards of seeing young people transform themselves to be industry ready and start their school based apprenticeship is such a rewarding role. The challengesEvery job has challenges but I find I am supported when they arise Shared ServicesSep 20223 to 4 years in the role, current employeeGreat people. Incredible professional growth. Lots of fun. The good thingsThe AITC is an education disruptor - it's deliberately different. If you want to be part of something more, something big... if you want to make a difference and be the change, then the AITC is for you. The Rookies Program is one of the most transformational and rewarding experiences I have ever witnessed. The challengesAgility is absolutely necessary at the AITC because it changes and pivots to suit industry's needs. This can be challenging but also very rewarding.Administration Aug 2022Administration The good thingsPotential to be a good education model but so poorly executed The challengesManagement do not support staff, families or students. Too focused on making money and not on the actual job at hand. Awful culture. I person found this helpfulLearning and Development AdvisorMar 2022Less than 1 year in the role, current employeeA fantastic education model and a rewarding environment. The good thingsThe AITC is a fantastic environment where progressive ideas are encouraged and supported. The challengesBeing such an innovative school, you do have to be comfortable with change. However, that is what makes the role so exciting and the school so impactful for young people. 1 to 2 years in the role, former employeeExtremely poor management has ruined what could be a great workplace. The good thingsColleagues do their best to do their jobs. The challengesExtremely poor management and inconsistent communication, you never feel like you know what you are supposed to be doing. Administration RoleJun 2022Disappointing, has great potential if they can get a good campus manager and management. The good thingsMost of my colleagues were truly wonderful humans who really did want to educate the students. Interacting with the students. The challengesExtremely high turnover with good reason. Management are often contradicting each other, dont pass on important details and you couldnt rely on them to have your back. The focus should be on the students but it is really about the $$$1 person found this helpful7 principals / campus managers in less than 5 years. Need I say more? Inquiry We are a co-educational senior school offering Year 11 and 12 students the opportunity to complete their Senior Schooling while pursuing hands on learning towards a trade career. Trade studies are our focus and they are integrated into school. Our on-site state-of-the-art facilities are among the best in Queensland, allowing our students to learn industry best practice. Our teaching staff have many years industry experience, allowing staff to teach old and new techniques while giving students a valuable understanding of what to expect in their chosen trade career. Our students are well regarded within industry and have an above average 80% employment success rate. Here at the Australian Trade College North Brisbane, were a one-stop-shop with everything completed onsite. Along with our unique trade offerings, students at the Australian Trade College North Brisbane study Mathematics and English. This enables all students to qualify for the Queensland Certificate of Education (QCE). There are many options available that complement the students trade studies. Our teachers are dedicated, experienced, and committed to our unique model. Along with these studies, we have other traditional school activities, like camp, the senior formal and sports activities. This allows students the best of both worlds, the benefits of trade training, while still enjoying typical school milestones. We develop the workforce and create sustainable employment opportunities, by increasing individual competence through quality education and training. Australian Trade College North Brisbanes (ATCNB) Cadet Program is a unique one semester program that provides Year 10 students with the opportunity to get hands on experience in a range of trade subject areas and make an informed choice about a preferred pathway for Years 11 and 12! The Cadet Program is ideal for students who may already have an interest in a specific trade area, as well as those students who arent sure about what trade pathway they want to pursue. Cadets get to experience an extensive range of ATCNBs trade offerings and find out what it would be like to pursue a career in their trade area of choice.
