The groups of men had crossed into his farm after being dropped off at the nearby M1 services, following a 125-mile journey from the Dover ferry hidden inside lorries. Chris, who has run the farm for 38 years alongside his wife Lianne, 67, has even found an encampment in the woods close to his home - complete with water bottles and food wrappers showing people had been living there. Robert Jenrick has made an emotional appeal against assisted dying, as MPs prepare for a momentous vote on whether to let the terminally ill end their own lives. Harry Gilbertson was just 14 when he stabbed Ava White, 12, in the neck over a Snapchat video, in November 2021. You know how it goes. You look amazing when no one's around, but the second you need to leave the house, your skin has a meltdown. And in my case, I mean an eczema flare-up of epic proportions. Given my experience of trolling, you might expect that the news the man behind gossip forum Tattle Life has been sued for defamation would bring a smile to my face. Not so. I, in fact, love Tattle. She said in a letter to the Prime Minister she could not vote 'for reforms which include cuts to disabled people's finances'. 'mother of all breaches.' A major report has warned that a popular family sunscreen does not work, potentially leaving consumers at risk of skin cancer . New royal favourite Harriet Sperling joked with the King (right) on the hottest day of the year so far as she joined the family at Royal Ascot for the second time this week. But Peter Phillips' NHS nurse girlfriend of more than a year kept her cool, despite Britain seeing highs of 32.2C at Kew, under an hour away, yesterday. Even King Charles was seen adjusting his tie (below inset) in the tropical conditions as other racegoers cooled down with magnums of champagne and old-fashioned fans. King Charles and Camilla are pictured left. Top inset is Princess Beatrice. comments share Royals brave 32C temperatures at Ascot Ladies' Day Flight passengers are not guaranteed a seat even when they book one - and can be legally 'bumped' onto another service, a travel expert confirmed today. Airlines will sometimes book more people onto a flight than there are seats on a plane because travellers do not always turn up even if they have booked a flight. Carriers are also sometimes unable to board all passengers if they switch to a smaller aircraft for operational reasons, meaning too many people will try to board. Some passengers are therefore asked to give up their place on the flight - known as being 'bumped' - although airlines can also do so without your permission. There was after one such case last month involving a Ryanair passenger who did not pay to reserve himself a seat before a flight from Birmingham to Mallorca. Debbie Mularczyk, 67F68, purchased the 12-year-old mobile home in 2022 at Cornwall's SeaView Holiday Park, a branch of Wyldecrest Parks founded by selfproclaimed 'billionaire gypsy' Alfie Best. She was allegedly promised the 32,000 caravan was an'investment' by park owners, who claimed she could make a profit renting it out and then sell up down the line. However, in what the pensioner has described as a 'complete blow', she was told just two years later in 2024 that the property was unsellable as it was 'too old'. After forking out the initial lump sum and tens of thousands in site fees, the pensioner claims she is 50,000 out of pocket and trapped with a caravan she doesn't want. Jennifer Abbott, 69, was stabbed to death in her council flat in Camden on Friday just days after she was last seen by neighbours walking her pet corgi Prince. She was discovered wrapped in a blanket with tape over her mouth by her niece and neighbours, who broke into her home after growing concerns for her welfare, pals said. On Thursday afternoon, the Metropolitan Police arrested a woman, 66, over Ms Abbott's murder. They believe the killer made off withher diamond-encrusted Rolex after it went missing from her address. The director, who counted Paris Hilton, Kate Hudson andDan Ackroyd among her A-lister friends, moved to the capital after 'losing everything' from her life as a 'movie star'. Police arrested the 66-year-old on Wednesday in connection with the stabbing of Jennifer Abbott. She has been remanded in custody. The director was stabbed to death in her council flat. Noel Edmonds has sent fans into a frenzy after showcasing his surprisingly ripped physique. The Deal Or No Deal presenter, 76, looked incredible as he showcased his muscular torso in a pair of blue patterned swimming trunks after being named Torso Of The Week by Heat magazine. And the TV star has revealed the key to his secret health regime which he calls 'Tranquil Power'. comments 3 videos share Noel Edmonds, 76, reveals his secret health regime On the morning of May 20, 1979, Graham Smith received an urgent message to telephone his father. When he did, he was told the shocking news that his beloved older sister Helen had been found dead in the grounds of an apartment block in Saudi Arabia, where the 23-year-old had been working as a nurse. Yet as the family digested this information, it was already crystal clear that the authorities in Saudi were keen to rule the tragic death an accident. Now, a new documentary looks into the death of a sociable and caring young woman in the desert. Metropolitan Police detective chief inspector James Mason was given a final written warning by the panel in October 2021 for calling Kristina O'Connor, 37, his 'favourite Camden victim of crime' and asking her out after she was injured in an attempted robbery in October 2011. A police misconduct panel previously found that Mr Mason, 47, used his authority to sexually harass her and that his behaviour amounted to gross misconduct, but ruled that it would have been 'disproportionately harsh' to sack him or reduce his rank. Mr Mason subsequently resigned from the force in 2022. Oasis brothers Liam and Noel Gallagherhave returned to the stage together for the first timesince their reunion tour was announced last year. But rather than being the result of hours of rehearsals aheadof their first show on July 4, the brothers have recreated the look that helped solidify the Britpop movement, with a new campaign for sporting brand Adidas. A brand new image, posted on Adidas' social media on Thursday, showed the duo dressed in specially designed pieces boasting their band's name, and was captioned: 'The band with three stripes.' He's just announced he is set to become a father for the sixth time, as he prepares to welcome his fourth child with his now wife Verity Paris. And while the couple are living an idyllic life with their three children over in Spain after moving overseas three years ago, Lee Ryan's love life hasn't always been so conventional. From celebrity romances to rumoured flings, love triangles and even a secret love child, the singer's love life hasn't always been so conventional. The E4 show proved hugely popular with viewers and made the likes of Spencer Matthews, Ollie Locke and Louise Thompson household names. The cast have gone on to have varying success since the show took off and most look very different now to when they first rose to fame. Many have admitted to having work done, getting new teeth, or have had incredible glow ups and body transformations. And recent instalments of the series have seen cast member try out tweakments ranging from basic Botox to salmon sperm facials. But who has changed the most in the years since their King's Road antics? This is no ordinary gang - and since its founding in the late 1990s it has risen to become one of Merseyside's most feared and powerful criminal outfits. The bungalow in Skegness is up for sale for 275,000 and is described in the town. It is situated just a one minute walk away from the beach and has a popular golf club in behind the back garden. This unique location makes the property ideal for keen golfers and long walks along the beach. Complete with a spacious sitting room, a kitchen with plenty of storage and a conservatory, the detached bungalow is an attractive offer for its price. Politicians and members of the Pakistani government are believed to have been engaged in 'high-level talks' to allow Qari Abdul Rauf, 55, and Adil Khan, 54, to be deported. The cruelty on display is jaw-dropping. Brad Pitt - who escaped real scrutiny over Angelina's report of the abuse she claims she and the children suffered at Pitt's hands - has just humiliated his son. Revellers at Royal Ascot spilled out onto the street as they were spotted heading home on the hottest day of the year so far. Drinks were flowing in the scorching heat and many racegoers were looking a little worse for wear after leaving the venue. Even King Charles was seen adjusting his tie in the tropical conditions as other racegoers cooled down with magnums of champagne and old-fashioned fans. Classic floral sundresses, extravagant headpieces and showstopping maxi dresses were all on displayas hundreds of well-heeled revellers descended on the Berkshire racecourse for the third day of the meet. Unsurprisingly, hats where the focus of many racegoers' outfits, with flowers, feathers and beading on show. Dressed to impress, ladies wore a variety of eye-catching headpieces as they stepped out for a day of fun in the sun. Royal Ascot, known as the jewel in the crown of the UK racing calendar, will welcome hundreds of thousands of punters during the five-day meet. This is the shocking moment a street performer took swift revenge after an attacker brutally slapped him across the face. Jason Allan, 28, claimed that a group of brazen teenagers had touched his guitar while he was singing on a busy high street in Leeds. Ryanair has hit back at a couple who vowed they will 'never fly with the airline again' after their decision to not pay extra to reserve seats ended up getting them kicked off the flight. The conservationist and model, 21, recently took to her Instagram to share a video of herself cuddling two lions before releasing them into the wild with her father. Resting her head on one lion, she penned: 'My beautiful ZEMO on the day we released him in Africa. I can't wait to see him soon.' Justin Bieber's Father's Day reportedly ended in a bitter showdown with his wife Hailey after he spent the day posting bizarre messages on Instagram. The singer, 31, failed to share any tribute to his wife, 28, or their nine-month old son Jack Blues Bieber on the day, aside from seemingly referring to her as a 'lil ho'. Instead he shared a barrage of bizarre pictures and messages on his social media, including private messages in which he admitted to being 'traumatized' before cutting out a friend for struggling to accept his 'anger.' Princess Beatrice and husband Edoardo Mapelli Mozzi packed on the PDA at Royal Ascot today, sharing a passionate kiss as they watched the races unfold from the stands. The affectionate couple were spotted laughing, pointing, gasping and even nervously biting their nails as they followed the day's action, clearly caught up in the excitement of the track, with Peter Phillips and his new girlfriend Harriet Sperling (inset) also sharing a kiss.
