Cabals are sometimes secret societies composed of a few designing persons, and at other times are manifestations of emergent behavior in society or governance on the part of a community of persons who have well established public affiliation or kinship. The term can also be used to refer to the designs of such persons or to the practical consequences of their emergent behavior, and also holds a general meaning of intrigue and conspiracy. The use of this term usually carries strong connotations of shadowy corners, back rooms and insidious influence. The term is frequently used in conspiracy theories; some Masonic conspiracy theories describe Freemasonry as an internationalist secret cabal.Chambers 20th Century Dictionary3.0 / 1 voteCabalka-bal', n. a small party united for some secret design: the plot itself: a name in English history esp. given to five unpopular ministers of Charles II. This leads many to the conclusion that the "powers that be" are deliberately carrying out a disinformation campaign to protect their secret activities. History is replete with examples of big news stories that have left the general public dissatisfied with official reports. Down through the ages, we have seen false flag events — reasons to start wars or institute restrictive laws. Examples of these include: The USS Maine sinking The USS Maine was a US Navy ship that sank in Havana Harbor in February 1898, leading to the outbreak of the Spanish–American War in April of that year. American newspapers claimed that the Spanish were responsible for the ship's destruction. A later investigation showed that the ship was actually destroyed due to a coal fire onboard. Yellow journalism newspaper captions after the sinking of the Maine The Gulf of Tonkin Incident Was used as an excuse to escalate the war against North Vietnam. Following the incident in which the Vietnamese were said to attack US destroyer ships in neutral waters, President Lyndon was authorized to "take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression." A later investigation found that the destroyers were actually on an espionage mission in waters claimed by North Vietnam. The Nayirah Testimony Led to the US invasion of Iraq, yet few knew that the testimony was completely fake. The Bush administration advanced an emotionally moving testimony from a 15-year-old Kuwaiti girl named Nayirah. Crying, she described what she had seen with her own eyes in a hospital in Kuwait City — soldiers invading hospitals and taking babies out of incubators who were left to die. PR Watch online reported that following the war, human rights investigators attempted to confirm Nayirah's story and could find no witnesses or other evidence to support it. Amnesty International, which had fallen for the story, was forced to issue an embarrassing retraction. 9/11 Despite overwhelming expert opinion from fire and emergency crews, architects and engineers, aviation experts, demolition experts, and even eyewitnesses that details in the official account are blatantly untruthful, 9/11 led to many actions to restrict freedom and invade privacy in the name of security. This one event seems to have catapulted us into a New World Order reminiscent of author George Orwell's world of 1984, with our own government spying on us, conducting body searches, installing detectors in airports and government buildings, instituting travel restriction, creating the Department of Homeland Security, and so on. A Fear-Based Agenda Fear is arguably one of the two most powerful motivators of human beings, with the other being love. To many, it seems as though the mainstream media, which is owned by the most conservative and powerful multinational corporations the world has ever known, capitalizes on school shootings, acts of terrorism, and swings in the economy to control the populace. Add to this the increasing stress of the middle and lower classes just to pay their bills, and we are left scared and confused with a world turning to giant corporations for faster (and artificially produced) foods that are deleterious to the health, pharmaceuticals to mitigate stress and anxiety, terrified that supposedly dangerous immigrants are seeking to infiltrate our country, weapons to protect ourselves from the attackers we see in the media, and foreign governments threatening to take away our rights. Mike Lofgren adds to this list: detaining prisoners indefinitely without charge, conducting dragnet surveillance on the American people without a judicial warrant, and engaging in unprecedented (at least since the McCarthy era) politically motivated investigations against federal employees (the so-called "Insider Threat Program." All the while, we seem to be in a situation where our protectors are actually our prisoners. To keep us from uniting for a common cause of freedom of mind and body, the "free world" is perpetually subjected to media broadcasts and political leaders that divide people — Democrats against Republicans, blue states versus red states, people of color against "old white men," rich against poor, and so on. Six Ways the Cabal Influences the World Today The Cabal has orchestrated its efforts through various arms working to assure we do not become aware of our true mastery. Media The most insidious activity is covert media programming. From cartoons to pop music and even news and mainstream television, a fear agenda permeates all. This subconscious programming entrains us to be fearful, stressed, and sick. Hollywood's creative efforts often fit into a precise formulaic scripts Blockbuster movies are in place to program our reactions so that when a cataclysmic event does occur, they can predict our responses. Pharmaceuticals and Food Genetically modified foods, sugar, and chemicals rather than living foods are all part of a long term plan to weaken and sicken us. In adding fluoride to the drinking water, we are unknowingly pumped with chemicals that ensure we cannot reach the states of spiritual expansion. Fluoride blocks the pineal gland chakra (center of psychic vision) and inhibits the opening of our higher spiritual functions. Education The mainstream education system does not encourage free thinking, instead of creating followers. Children who do not comply in sitting quietly in their seats are placed on drugs at a young age. More damaging still is the fact that modern education is a complex brainwashing system designed to teach the version of the world they want us to believe is real. William Tompkins, a former Naval insider, boldly states: "Every school on the planet has been given lies. All education has been given lies about astronomy, mathematics, technical capabilities, [and] history." When we are falsely taught what the world is, we cannot see beyond the scope of what we have been programmed to believe. Science and Technology The government uses scientific innovation, financed by the Cabal, as a means of power. When we recognize that every technological advance made in the last century is destructive to the environment, and disrupts the harmony of the natural world, we begin to glimpse the reaching of their control. Nikola Tesla created brilliant inventions that would grant us all true freedom. His vision was so far-reaching he created technologies that would connect and empower the world. His ideas posed a huge threat to the ways the Cabal maintain wealth and control. Suppression of patents and great thinkers who create technologies to better our world are notoriously squashed so we are crippled in our ability to thrive and grow. If they control science and technology, they proliferate their agenda to suppress freedom of thought and spirit. Monetary System The Cabal has created an exploited society living in debt and forced to work jobs that drain our life force. We become slaves to the money (or lack thereof) and must rely on the establishment to save us in the form of loans, credit cards, and fees. While the global elite amasses larger amounts of wealth, the middle class is buried in greater debt to simply survive. Religion and Science Religion is blocking our path to God while Science is closing our minds. Belief systems limit our access to spirit and truth. Through science and religion, the cabal crafted a lens with which we view the world. This ensures we do not go beyond the current limitations of perception. The main way they control us is by controlling our co-creative ability. They control our power of creative thinking, dreaming, and manifesting, diluting our ability to trust and know ourselves. In doing so they have made us believe we are not in control of our reality. When we recognize that everything we think and feel is a cabal program, we lift the veil to take actions to awaken and restore our innate powers. A Warped and Censored Sense of History George Orwell warned, "The most effective way to destroy people is to deny and obliterate their own understanding of their history." The American Council of Alumni and Trustees reported that less than half of college graduates could identify Washington as the American general at the Battle of Yorktown, and only 15 percent identified correctly that James Madison is the "Father of the Constitution." The information that makes its way into the textbooks to teach successive generations is, at best, lacking in context and a multiplicity of points of view. Eleventh-grade U.S. history teacher Samantha Manchac, Houston, said that the guidelines for textbooks downplay some issues — like slavery — and skirt others — like Jim Crow laws. History professor Edward Countryman, Southern Methodist University, said that there is a "huge disconnect between all that we've learned and what tends to go into the standard story as textbooks tell it...It's kind of like teaching physics and stopping at Newton without bringing in Einstein, and that sort of thing." No doubt, the standards of public education in the United States have been steadily declining and curriculums have been suffering from censorship by omission. But the real question is who, or what group, is behind this decline — is it an accident of bureaucracy or the result of a more nefarious plan to dumb down society to gain more control over the masses? If we keep Orwell's prophetic words in mind, then at least we can be aware that there have always been individuals who have formed cabals to shape the world according to their own greed, power, and vanity. The biggest question now is this: Where are these powerful few leading us as a civilization, and is it too late to escape from their clutches? Now is a good time to remember that Orwell also said, "In a time of deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary act."
