

Click Here

Should i put my linkedin on my resume

LinkedIn overall is a great app. I have found great people on there and connected with them to build my network. Also, the learning courses on the site are on par with sites like Coursera, Udemy, etc. I will say that it's very noticeable sometimes when they change up the algorithm and show me things I'm not interested in, or topics that are meant to spark a negative reaction, but that's social media for you. One of my biggest complaints is their job section. I've applied at over 1000+ jobs through there site, and the furthest I have ever made was "so and so viewed your resume/profile", or recruiters that ghost me, so I continue to stick with Indeed on that matter. While LinkedIn is great for networking, I do feel putting a face with a name on LinkedIn can work against POC as I have been ghosted many times by recruiters or companies once they view my profile. For example, I talked via email with Company A, Company A LOVED my resume.....then I see someone who works from Company A view my profile.....I get a rejection email a few hours later. Not saying this to trash the app, only telling my experience, but overall, I still would recommend folks to get a LinkedIn page. Hi There, Thanks for taking the time to review the LinkedIn app, also thanks for the 5-star rating. We'll be sure to share your feedback with our product team. If there's anything you'd like to add to your feedback, please don't hesitate to email us at you! IR LinkedIn and 3rd parties use essential and non-essential cookies to provide, secure, analyze and improve our Services, and to show you relevant ads (including professional and job ads) on and off LinkedIn. Learn more in our Cookie Policy.Select Accept to consent or Reject to decline non-essential cookies for this use. You can update your choices at any time in your settings. Share — copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format for any purpose, even commercially. Adapt — remix, transform, and build upon the material for any purpose, even commercially. The licensor cannot revoke these freedoms as long as you follow the license terms. Attribution — You must give appropriate credit , provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made . You may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggests the licensor endorses you or your use. ShareAlike — If you remix, transform, or build upon the material, you must distribute your contributions under the same license as the original. No additional restrictions — You may not apply legal terms or technological measures that legally restrict others from doing anything the license permits. You do not have to comply with the license for elements of the material in the public domain or where your use is permitted by an applicable exception or limitation . No warranties are given. The license may not give you all of the permissions necessary for your intended use. For example, other rights such as publicity, privacy, or moral rights may limit how you use the material. Adding your LinkedIn profile to your CV is a great way to stand out and connect with an employer on a more personal level. This blog will cover where and how to add it.With 90% of hiring managers using LinkedIn to find and recruit candidates, LinkedIn has become an essential component of the job search. But should you add it to your CV? While the answer is often a resounding yes! there are a few caveats and best practices to make sure that your LinkedIn profile makes a positive impression when featured on your CV. In this blog, we'll take a look at the major considerations when it comes to adding your LinkedIn profile to your CV, and we'll dive into the steps of how to do it effectively. Here's what we'll cover: Why you should put your LinkedIn URL on your CV When it's a good idea not to include your LinkedIn on your CV Where your profile URL should go on the page General LinkedIn tips to consider during your job search Placing your LinkedIn profile URL on your CV is a great way to give the hiring manager more insight into your experience, aspirations, and even your personality. LinkedIn has become the place where professionals go to make connections, share their interests and achievements, and stand out among the myriad of job seekers. If you've been using LinkedIn for these reasons, your profile likely contains information that an employer can't find on a two-page CV. Your LinkedIn profile helps the recruiter connect with you as a person and get to know more about you.In certain industries like HR, tech, finance, media, business, and marketing, a LinkedIn profile is considered an essential part of your professional presentation while in other fields it may be seen as optional or simply nice to have. There are specific situations where it makes sense to remove your LinkedIn from your CV. Here are some points to consider: Your LinkedIn profile is incomplete. A LinkedIn profile that lacks photos, an About section, or the basic details found on your CV won't help the hiring manager get to know you better. Plus, it could suggest to the employer that you are not active on the platform and therefore not a motivated candidate. Fill out most of the sections before adding your LinkedIn to your CV. Your LinkedIn profile doesn't match your CV. Your LinkedIn profile should work with your CV to paint a cohesive portrait of you as a candidate. If your LinkedIn is full of information or experience from another industry, it may confuse the hiring manager and hurt your chances of landing the job. In this case, it's better to leave it off. Your LinkedIn profile is not up-to-date. A LinkedIn profile that does not show your most recent experience may suggest that you are trying to cover up something or simply don't think that keeping your profile relevant is important. Your LinkedIn profile is offensive or unprofessional. LinkedIn is a platform for career professionals and job seekers, so it's certainly not the place to share controversial, crude, or offensive information or photos. If you're LinkedIn contains edgy content, it's best to delete it and create a more polished image before adding your URL to your CV. Expert tip While LinkedIn is a great tool for many job seekers, it's not required for every industry. If you work in retail, hospitality, transport and logistics, maintenance, construction, food and beverage or other service industries, it may not be necessary to maintain a LinkedIn profile in order to land a new job. There's no harm in choosing to have one anyway, just make sure to keep it professional and in line with your CV. Adding links to a cv in resume.io builderYour LinkedIn URL should only be added to your CV once and should be placed in a prominent location, usually within the header at the top of the page or somewhere near your contact details. One great way to add your LinkedIn URL to your profile if you are submitting your CV online or by email, is by adding a clickable link. Resume.io's CV builder makes this simple with a handy box where you can add your profile link and label it either "LinkedIn" or give the URL. If you think there's a chance your CV might be printed either by you or someone else, make sure to type out your full URL so that the hiring manager can reference it from the paper copy. Expert tip Customize your URL. Did you know you can easily customize your LinkedIn URL? While the default option may contain a bunch of random numbers and symbols, you should update it to a clear combination of your first and last name to make your profile easier to understand and remember. This is especially important when adding it to your CV. Update this information on the right side of your profile in the box called "Public profile & URL". LinkedIn can be a great tool for your job search – if you know how to use it effectively. Here are some tips to consider: Focus on the most visible sections. A hiring manager will notice your profile and cover photos, headline and About section first, so make sure to spend extra time crafting these to tell your professional story in a clear and concise way. Network to find hidden job opportunities. A large percentage of jobs are never published online but you can hear about them by connecting with the decision-makers themselves either directly or via LinkedIn groups. Use the #OpenToWork banner. By adding the Open To Work banner to your profile photo, you'll stand out to recruiters searching for candidates. Access this feature by going to your profile and clicking the blue "Open to" below your name. Protect your privacy. If you're still working a job but looking for a new one, you may not want your boss to know you're on your way out. Make sure to check out LinkedIn's privacy settings to keep things secret until you're ready. Keep it positive. LinkedIn is not the place to complain about management or badmouth your employer. Recruiters will assume they might get the same treatment if they hire you. Make sure to keep your profile clean and professional. Update your profile a little at a time. Unless you want to, you don't need to become a LinkedIn influencer posting daily life lessons to get the most out of the platform. Even a simple, complete, and occasionally active profile can go a long way in showing a recruiter what you bring to the table. Key takeawaysA relevant, updated, and professional LinkedIn profile can be a great addition to your CV to give a recruiter a deeper understanding of your skills, personality, and background. Make sure your profile conveys the same message as your CV, otherwise you may confuse the hiring manager.Add your profile once to your CV header. Resume.io's CV builder makes this easy to achieve.Take advantage of all of LinkedIn's tools and features for job seekers to make connections and find your next great position. To put LinkedIn on a resume, you can copy and paste your profile URL to the document, hyperlink it, or even add the LinkedIn logo or a QR code to make it look more professional.Before learning how to put LinkedIn on a resume, you should also tweak your LinkedIn profile to perfection by adding some skills, endorsements, and work experience to it.Adding your LinkedIn profile to a resume lets you present your experience and expertise in more detail.Before you learn how to put LinkedIn on a resume, make sure to optimize your profile and include all the relevant work-related information, as well as references and endorsements from reputable sources.Some of the best tips on how to add a LinkedIn profile to your resume include hyperlinking and adding a LinkedIn logo or QR code to your document.The short answer to the "Should you include a LinkedIn profile on your resume" question is—yes, you should.As for a more elaborate answer, attaching your LinkedIn profile to your application lets you share your career story from another angle, adding an additional layer to your professional self-presentation. This can possibly cement your candidacy in the recruiter's mind—the more time they spend on your application, the higher your chances of landing the job.Additionally (and even more importantly), according to LinkedIn statistics, 72% of recruiters search for candidates on this platform. Therefore, whatever the job you're applying for, knowing how to put LinkedIn on a resume increases the chances of recruiters being interested in further inspecting your job application.Here are some benefits of featuring your LinkedIn profile on a resume:Your profile will give your application another layer because the platform offers much more room for you to go into detail about your experience and knowledge than a resume.LinkedIn offers reputable social proof of your expertise to recruiters in the form of endorsements and testimonials from your connections.Over 70% of recruiters search for candidates on LinkedIn, so attaching your profile to your resume makes it easier for your potential employer to find you online and learn more about you.There are several things to do before including a LinkedIn profile on your resume. Namely, you want to make it presentable, as it's somewhat of an ID in the business networking world.Here are a few pro tips to help you write a good LinkedIn profile:Optimizing your LinkedIn profile encompasses several phases, from listing your work experience to choosing the right profile and cover picture, so let's go through them one by one:List your skills. This step is pretty straightforward—all you need to do is scroll through the provided list of soft skills and hard skills and check all that apply to you. However, a list of skills that's too extensive can seem unwieldy, so only choose the ones relevant to the job niche you're aiming for.Add your work experience. The most essential section on a resume is work experience, and the same goes for LinkedIn. A list of impressive skills is hollow if you have nothing to corroborate them.Get creative with your headline. By default, your headline on LinkedIn is your most recent role. However, instead of leaving it at that, you can enhance that section by including industry-related keywords and an impact statement.Make a story out of your summary. Since many LinkedIn users' profiles have no summary, making an effort to turn yours into a story will immediately set you apart from the crowd (and competition). You can do that by stating your goals and passions, as well as your top core competencies.Use relevant keywords. Since your LinkedIn profile is your personal piece of content marketing, use the right keywords and buzzwords to enhance its visibility.Choose the right profile and cover photo. Your profile photo represents you in the business networking world, so choose a recent one, make sure your face takes up about 60% of it, and wear professional clothes. As for the cover photo, go for something that sets the tone of your profile and makes it memorable. You should get references and endorsements on LinkedIn, as they'll increase your credibility by substantiating your skills and expertise. Everyone can blow their own horn, but the lodes of your achievements are only impressive if others sing them. The best way to go about it is to go through your network and leave several genuine endorsements yourself, as people tend to return the favor. Another approach is to politely ask some of your connections for endorsements and send out personalized requests for references to a few professionals in your field.Adding examples of your work by providing a portfolio or links to your previous projects on LinkedIn makes your profile more readable and interesting. More importantly, it lets you showcase your work visually, giving potential employers a clearer idea of what you do and how. Customizing and cleaning your LinkedIn URL makes your profile easier to identify, which can lead to more relevant connections. Let's see how to do it in a few simple steps, both on desktop and mobile.To customize your LinkedIn URL on a desktop computer, follow these steps:1. Select the Me icon at the top of your homepage.2. Click View Profile.3. On your profile page, select the Edit icon next to the Public profile and URL option.4. Select Edit your custom URL and click the pen icon to confirm the action.5. Change your URL in the provided text box.6. Save the changes.As for mobile devices, follow these steps:Click on your profile photo.Select the View profile option.3. Tap Contact info under More.4. Click on the Edit icon.5. Select the Profile URL option on the Edit contact info page—the Public profile settings page will open. 5. Tap the Edit icon under Edit your custom URL.7. Enter your custom URL in the provided text box.8. Save the changes. Once you've done all this, it's time to learn how to put LinkedIn on a resume and increase your chances of recruiters getting in touch with you.Your LinkedIn profile should be in the header or footer of your resume. However, there are different ways to place it there, so stay tuned as we thoroughly explain how to put LinkedIn on a resume (examples included).The best tip on how to put LinkedIn on a resume is also the first that most people don't—simply copy and paste the link to the document.So, how to get a LinkedIn URL copied? Just load your profile and select the Edit public profile & URL option. Next, copy your public profile URL under the Edit your custom URL section. Lastly, paste the link in the header or footer of your resume. Another simple tip on how to put LinkedIn on a resume is to hyperlink it to make it clickable. That way, recruiters will have easy, one-click-away access to it. Here's how to do that:Paste your LinkedIn URL to your resume (you can leave out the part to save space.Highlight the link and right-click on it to open the drop-down menu, then choose the Hyperlink option.Paste your URL in its entirety (with the part) and click OK.Test the link to see if it's functional. If you want your resume to appear even more professional, adding the LinkedIn logo to it can be a way to achieve that.So, how to put the LinkedIn icon on a resume?First, download the LinkedIn icon and decide where you want to place it on your resume. Then, locate the icon on your device and add it to your document. In the end, you can resize it for the final touches.If you want to make it even easier for recruiters to locate you on LinkedIn, consider adding a LJ QR code—the one that can be scanned with a smartphone camera—to your resume. First, generate a QR code online and choose the information to encode (the link to your LinkedIn profile). Then, copy your LinkedIn URL and post it to the generator. Lastly, choose where to place the code and add it as an image to your resume.While there's an option to add your resume to your LinkedIn page, you should think twice about doing so if it contains sensitive information. Since your LinkedIn profile is accessible to everyone, your resume would be too. That means anyone can see and download it, which puts you at risk of a privacy breach.However, if there's no private information on your resume, you can upload it to LinkedIn quite easily. All you need to do is select the Add Profile Section on your profile and click on the Media option in the Features section. From there, locate your resume and upload it.Having a presentable LinkedIn profile raises your chances of getting noticed and, subsequently, hired. However, attaching it to your resume can make those chances skyrocket, as it offers recruiters an in-depth insight into your skills, knowledge, and work experience. Of course, reputable references and endorsements add yet another layer to your application.So, if you were wondering, "Should I put LinkedIn on a CV or resume," we hope we've answered your question. By following our simple guidelines on how to put LinkedIn on a resume, you can present yourself as the ideal candidate for your dream job with minimal effort! The Motorsport Images Collections captures events from 1895 to today's most recent coverage.Discover The CollectionCurated, compelling, and worthy your time. Explore our latest gallery of Editors' Picks.Browse Editors' FavoritesExperience AI-Powered CreativityThe Motorsport Images Collections captures events from 1895 to today's most recent coverage.Discover The CollectionCurated, compelling, and worthy your time. Explore our latest gallery of Editors' Picks.Browse Editors' FavoritesExperience AI-Powered Creativity Here's how to best represent LinkedIn on your resume so you receive the right type of attention!It's a common knowledge that LinkedIn is the top professional social media site used. Unlike other older social media sites that have declined in popularity over the years, LinkedIn has maintained its popularity and has been actively used since its launch in 2003. With more than 1 billion users worldwide and 67 million companies on the site, it's a go-to resource to network, recruit, find and apply for jobs, promote your expertise, and more. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and knowledge. If you are on LinkedIn, make sure your profile is up to date and that it accurately represents you. You should also make sure your profile is professional and that it's easy for recruiters to find you. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, create an account as soon as possible. For those of you who are on LinkedIn, you might be wondering if you should include LinkedIn on your resume. Great question! In this post, we'll cover:Why you should include LinkedIn on a resumeHow to update your LinkedIn profile so it's safe to share your URLHow to create a custom LinkedIn URLWays to personalize your LinkedIn URLWhere and how to put LinkedIn on your resumeWhen not to include LinkedIn on your resumeHow to include LinkedIn Learning on your resumeShould you put LinkedIn on a resume? It's true that your resume is the first impression employers have of you when you apply for a job. With that said, count on your LinkedIn profile to be the second. LinkedIn is a platform where you can showcase your skills, knowledge, and work experience. It's a place where you can connect with other professionals in your industry and get advice from them. So, if you're not on LinkedIn, it's a missed opportunity to showcase your skills and